Improving With Age Fundraising Lunch

As one of Maggie's all-time favourite food experiences, Tasting Australia is a natural event choice to shine the light on her Foundation's next undertaking - "Improving With Age", a fundraising lunch at Sprout Cooking School, on Thursday 4 May, 2017.

Along with HammondCare's Peter Morgan-Jones, a handpicked group of talented local aged care chefs will join Maggie to highlight the potential available within aged care kitchens when fresh thinking is brought to the table. As Maggie explains,

"I hope that by bringing together the cooking of laterally thinking aged care chefs, and allowing our lunch guests the chance to really experience how easily delicious food can find its place amongst the realms of dietary modifications and budgets, it may be possible for us to change the status quo in aged care and to spread the knowledge of what good food can do for the elderly."

Maintaining Maggie's long held philosophies around food, the chefs joining her will work with fresh, seasonal and local produce to ensure that guests are treated to a full-flavoured lunch menu. This may be the last lunch guests would expect to find in an aged care home, but with good food as her champion always, it's the very first priority Maggie would like to see given to residents everywhere.

All proceeds will benefit the Maggie Beer Foundation's continued good work. Spots are very limited and MBF are offering 10% off tickets for Foundation supporters by using the code MBFLTA via the ticket link below.
